

Feature Spotlight: MC Points

MC Author 42 · Follow

Published in Mission Control · 2 min read · Oct 30, 2023

3

This article is part of a series of articles highlighting several different features of Mission Control in more details. You can find the overview of the different topics here: Welcome to Mission Control!

The topic of this article are MC points, your lifeblood of doing stuff within Mission Control:

230,817

Quick summary: In order to perform actions within the weekly reward system in Mission Control, you need Mission Control points. You earn these automatically upon mining Shards in Alien Worlds or playing the Outpost Builder. Sometimes there are other ways of earning MC points, e.g. by community activities on the Mission Control Discord. As an example, you will need MC points to start adventures or to claim your weekly reward.

Whenever you mine for NFT points / shards within Alien Worlds, you will also earn MC points in Mission Control. Each one Shard earned in Alien Worlds will also give you 10 MC points in Mission Control. You don't need to claim the MC points, they are automatically added to your account. There currently is no decay on MC points. You can save them up for as long as you wish.

Another way to earn MC points is our Outpost Builder.

Always keep an open eye for the Mission Control Discord: from time to time there are community activities that reward additional MC points to players. Additional ways for earning MC points will be added to Mission Control in the future.

Currently MC points are needed to start adventures and to claim your weekly reward. Future features of Mission Control will also require MC points to