Recently Alien Worlds added a new feature called “Rarity Pools”. This feature split the mining pools for Trilium not only by planet, but also by tool rarity. Since then rarer tools were able to earn a lot more Trilium than before.

Players were eagerly watching the mining pools go up and down on <https://aw-metrics.yeomen.ai> to switch to the right planet to get the most out of their mine.

However, these statistics are not updating in real-time and can have a delay of up to 40 seconds, which meant that someone might have already mined the Trilium that was in the pool.

With the Mine Maximizer of Mission Control, players can now just select the pool they are mining in and click on “Change Land”. This will automatically take them to a Geothermal Springs (the best landtype for Trilium Mining) on the planet with the currently highest pool.
