Recently the most popular tool calculator for Alien Worlds went offline. We were approached by the community and asked if we could include something like this in Mission Control.

And here we are. The Tool Tactician is live and you can access it on <https://waxmissioncontrol.io/>

You always wanted to compare tool setups based on realistic mining results? That's not a problem anymore. Beyond basic values of the tool setup, the Tool Tactician offers you additional insight by using figures based on actual mining pool data from the previous week.

This is of course not only a tool for experienced miners. Often times its especially the new players who need guidance. The Tool Tactician is only one of many planned tools, which will help players to see the path into the Alien Worlds Metaverse more clearly. As the past has shown, players who start as miners have a very diverse skillset. If we give a helping hand to new players and take them into our communities, we have a chance that they will use their skills to further the Metaverse in the future.

Come and try it out at <https://waxmissioncontrol.io/> and let us know what you think.
